DEATH CAME SUDDENLY

PROF. LEOPOLD ERNEST FRIE-MEL STRICKEN AT PER-TLE SPRINGS.

DIED 4:30 O'CLOCK P. M. TUESDAY

The Remains Brought to Sedalia This Morning—Had Resided Here for More Than Quarter of a Century.

Prof. Leopold Ernest Friemel, director of the Sedalia Military band, and one of the best known and well liked residents of the city, died suddenly of cerebral apoplexy at Pertle Springs, a suburb of Warkensburg, at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, while the strains of music were filling the air at the druggists' convention at the Springs.

The sudden death was a heart-rending shock to the family and friends, and the consternation it caused among the band members can not be described.

Prof. Friemel accompanied the band to Pertle Springs Tuesday morning, where they had a four days' engagement to furnish music for the druggists' convention. He complained of heart trouble and of the pain which the organ caused him, but like previous instances, it was not thought to be of a serious nature.

Throughout the day he had performed his duties as bandmaster, and shortly after 4 o'clock, when the band boys had finished playing a certain piece, they proceeded to cross the bridge to a spot known as "The Chapel."

On the way to "The Chapel" a steep hill must necessarily be climbed, and after crossing the bridge Prof. Friemel made slight complaint of the pain about his heart. He dropped out of line and sat down. His action was noticed by the other band members, but they paid little attention to it, not surmising for an instant that anything serious would result.

Soon after dropping out of line a severe spell seized the patient. Dr.
Otto F. Claus, a Warkensburg physician, was hurriedly summoned, and after working with the patient for some time pronounced him dead.

The news was quickly conveyed to the band members, who immediately notified the relatives here.

The remains were taken to C. A.
Danner's undertaking establishment on Holden street, where they were embalmed and prepared for burial, then shipped to Sedalia, arriving here at 11:05 o'clock this morning, being in charge of William Latour, who had been attending the convention.

The body was taken to the parlors of the Sedalia Undertaking company, and later removed to the family residence, 619 West Second street, where it will lie until the time of the funeral.

The news of Prof. Friemel's death was received by the family and Sedalia friends in a most pitiful manner. Early yesterday morning the family and friends bade good-by to Prof.
Friemel, not in the least anticipating that anything out of the ordinary would occur, and when the intelligence reached here of his death there was many a tear shed in memory of the deceased.

Born in Germany on October 6, 1845, Prof. Friemel learned the millinery trade, which he followed for many years. In 1871 he migrated to America, settling in Missouri. He lived at Jefferson City, California and Schell City, and in 1873 removed to Sedalia, where he has since resided.

On August 15, 1871, he was married at Tipton, Mo., to Miss Anna Louisa Ritchel, of that place, the Rev. Fr.
Keuper performing the ceremony.
With his bride he came to Sedalia, and of the union the following children were born: Leo, government clerk in the district court at Ryan, I.
T.; Otto and Arthur, civil engineers for the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis; Ernest, employed in a hardware store at Fort Worth, Texas; Gustave, of Sedalia; Mrs. Alma Koerner, of Cleveland, O., and Miss Dollie, of this city. He also leaves two brothers, one residing at Jefferson City and one in Germany, also a sister, living in the old country.

Prof. Friemel served in the Hussar regiment of the German army from 1865 to 1868, and saw active service in the war of Prussia against Austria. He also served in the same regiment in the Franco-German war, and during his service he was promoted to the rank of regimental musician. He was honorably discharged in 1871.

After coming to Sedalia Prof.
Friemel first engaged in the saddlery business, continuing in that line until 1895, when he was appointed sanitary officer of the city, serving in that position four years. On retiring from office, in 1899, he engaged in the insurance business, which he continued up to the last city election, when he was elected city assessor on the independent ticket.

He was treasurer of Elfracht lodge No. 176, A. O. U. W., had been president of the Pioneer Verein society for the past ten years; was a trustee for Missouri for the North American German league, and only

HARRY ORCHARD CONTINUES CALM AND SELF-POSSESSED IN CROSS-EXAMINATION.

BRINGS IN MOYER'S NAME NOW

Says President of Miners' Federation Had Feeling of Personal Enmity Against Governor Peabody.

Boise, Idaho, June 12.—Harry Orchard, still calm and self-possessed, began this morning the seventh day of his remarkable cross-examination.
Attorney Richardson began by questioning Orchard regarding his conference with Charles H. Moyer in Denver about April, 1905.

Witness said that Moyer told him he wanted to get rid of Governor Peabody, as no one else would follow in his footsteps. Later he told him of Haywood and Pettibone, and they gave the same reasons for wanting to get rid of the governor.

Moyer, said the witness, also had a feeling of personal enmity toward Peabody, blaming him for being the cause of his arrest.

Orchard then gave a description of the attempts to kill Sherman Bell in Denver and said that for twelve nights he was at Bell's residence waiting an opportunity to shoot him, and that more than once Bell's life was saved by the barking of dogs.

BERT FLEMING DEAD

The Remains Will Be Brought Here
for Interment.

Postmaster E. E. Coddling today received a message from J. M. Fleming at Parsons, Kas., announcing the death of his son, C. H. Fleming, better known here as "Bert" Fleming, and stating that the remains would be brought here on M. & T. train No. 2 Thursday morning and taken direct from the station to the cemetery for burial by the side of his mother.

The father, J. M. Fleming, resided here for a number of years, at which time he was a conductor on the M.
& T. For several years past he has been in the employ of the company at Parsons, Kas.

The son, "Bert," was about 37, or 38 years of age. He served in the Spanish-American war, and has been an invalid ever since returning home.

NAVY SECRETARY IS LOST

Not Heard From.

Norfolk, Va., June 12.—Up to early this afternoon no word had been received from the tender aboard of which Secretary of the Navy Metcalf went up the James river yesterday, but no fear is expressed for his safety. It is believed that the tender is only fog bound.

Washington, June 12.—A dispatch received at 2:30 this afternoon from Secretary Metcalf, dated at Fortress Monroe, indicates that he is alright.

SAYS CHILD IS NOT HIS

FATERNITY AT STAKE IN SUIT BROUGHT AGAINST A MILLIONAIRE.

ALL GOTHAM IS SAID TO BE AGOG

Not Trying to Dodge Responsibility, but Will Not Contribute to the Support of the Woman's Child.

New York, June 12.—W. E. D.
Stokes, the millionaire proprietor of the Hotel Ansonia and eighty other New York properties, was called yesterday a defendant before Justice Jaycox in the supreme court in flushing upon the complaint of Lucy M. Randolph, who claims that Mr. Stokes should contribute $500 a month to the support of her 4-year-old boy, upon the ground that the boy is Stokes's child.

Mr. Stokes absolutely denies the woman's claims, and in his determination to fight the case it is understood that several New Yorkers, prominent in the social world, are now being sought by subpoena servers as witnesses. Mr. Stokes in an interview, said:

"I am going to fight this case to a finish, no matter whom it may involve. If I thought that boy was mine I would take care of him. I hope I have no yellow streak in me that would make me dodge responsibility, but I will not be imposed upon."

"This case is likely to develop some startling features before it is finished. I am unwilling to discuss the history of the woman who appears as plaintiff. I would not be led into making any statement against her.
The witnesses in the case must speak for themselves, however, and now that the case has reached trial, it must go on to its conclusion."

"Other men of wealth have been obliged to go through somewhat similar ordeals and I shall not shrink from mine. I have many witnesses to be summoned, if necessary, and will tell my own story upon the stand as freely and as frankly as possible.
The ordeal is making me nervous, I admit, but I shall not lose my courage to see it through."

Mrs. Randolph, who is a handsome blonde woman of about 30 years, today declined to make any statement regarding the case.

"I am told I shall be the first witness," she said, "and while upon the stand I shall tell all my pitiful story.
Oh, how I wish it was over, but I shall go through it for the sake of my boy."

The little boy, over whom the suit is being fought, and it is no small suit, for if Mrs. Randolph wins it means more than $100,000 before the child is of age, is a handsome looking chap. Today he roamed at will among the lawyers and witnesses in the court room.

George Gordon Battie appeared as counsel for Mrs. Randolph, and Abe Gruber appeared for Mr. Stokes.

The present suit is one of three which the plaintiff has against Mr.
Stokes. One suit, began two years ago, was to recover $3,500, the value of a team and carriage, which she claimed she had been deprived of.
The present suit is for the boy's support, and Mrs. Randolph has one in her own behalf still pending.

According to the complaint of Mrs.
Randolph she and Stokes met about the time he was divorced from his wife, who is now Mrs. Phil Lydie, at that time Mrs. Randolph was Miss Lucette Rylie, living in West Seventy-second street, having recently come to this city from Kentucky.

After two years of friendship trouble came upon Mrs. Randolph in the autumn of 1904. During the interval of two years Mrs. Randolph had attracted widespread attention by the beauty of her gowns and park equip-ages, and when news of her trouble with "Mr. S." came, it was predicted in social circles that the rupture would have disastrous consequences in a large circle.

In the questioning of jurors yesterday, hints were given by the law-tween "Mr. S." and "Mrs. R." were between "Mr. S." and "Mrs. R." were likely to figure in the case.

Justice Jaycox recognized the general interest in the trial when he said just after the case was called:

"I am given to understand that the case just called is one which is likely to excite great public interest.

I wish to state in the beginning that this court will not do anything to aid in making the salacious details attractive, and must forbid the making of any sketches or photographs in the court room."

Everyone was duly impressed and no sketches were begun for several minutes.

Another Restraining Order.

Kansas City, June 12.—Federal Judge McPherson today issued an order restraining the state auditor from enforcing the bill taxing each transaction in grain futures 25 cents each.

Friday Will Be Flag Day.

Friday, the 14th inst. is Flag day, when patriotic citizens are asked to float Old Glory from their homes and places of business.

THE GOLF TOURNAMENT

MR. W. H. REYNOLDS AND MR.
HARRY R. FINKE TO CAPTAIN
THE TEAMS.

WILL PLAY ON SATURDAY NEXT

Much Interest Attaches to Contest, as It Is Believed That the Two Teams Are Very Evenly
"Matched."

In the qualifying round for the Scotch two-ball tournament played on last Saturday, sixteen players qualified and will participate in the tournament on next Saturday.

By reason of having made the two best scores in the play last Saturday, W. H. Reynolds and H. R. Finke will captain the two teams. There will be four foursomes, as follows:

1. W. H. Reynolds and W. B. Shirk vs. H. R. Finke and C. E. Yer-ter.

2. J. T. Montgomery and J. C. Mc-Laughlin vs. O. M. Barnett and H. B.
Shair.

3. L. L. Hgenfritz and G. K. Mackey vs. Newton Cannon and T. J.
Sturges.

4. J. S. Rogers and E. J. Evans vs.
Lee Montgomery and W. J. Maltby.

The first named pair in each foursome are members of the Reynolds team, the two last named being members of the Finke team.

Play will begin at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and all members of both teams are urged to be present, ready to play, at that time. In case any player above named finds it impossible to take part in this event he should notify the tournament committee not later than 10 o'clock Saturday, to the end that the vacancy may be filled and the match played. The absence of one player without such notice would destroy the match.

This is expected to be one of the most interesting matches ever played on the Country club links, and it is hoped that no players having qualified will fail to be on hand to fight it out.

Each foursome should keep score card. The contest is match play and the team of eight winning the greater number of holes wins the match.
Each member of the winning team will be given a golf ball.

The Country club's next tournament, Independence day tournament, to be played on July 4th, will be handicap medal play, further announcement to be made at the proper time.

ROBBED A RESIDENCE

The Home of E. O. Hansbrough Entered Early This Morning.

E. O. Hansbrough's residence, at 218 South Grand avenue, was entered by robbers early this morning.

A ladies' gold watch, five gold rings with sets, $7 in money, a small-sized gold monkey wrench and a pearl hand with a gold ring on it were stolen.

Entrance was gained to the place by raising a pantry window, which was unlocked.

There is no clue.

No Police Court Cases.

Today was quiet in police court,
there being no cases.

SENATOR MORGAN DEAD

HEART FAILURE FATAL TO THE DISTINGUISHED SOUTH ERN GENTLEMAN.

HE DIED JUST BEFORE MIDNIGHT

For Several Years He Had Been in Bad Health, but Had Retained Seat in the Senate—The Funeral in Selma.

Washington, June 12.—Senator John Tyler Morgan, of Alabama, died here last night.

Senator Morgan had been in bad health for years, but had more or less regularly attended the sessions of congress. He suffered from angina pectoris, which was the cause of his death. He died at 11:15 o'clock.

At the deathbed were his daughters, Miss Mary Morgan and Miss Cornelia Morgan, both of this city, and his secretary, J. O. Jones.

Mr. Morgan was a democrat. He was born in Athens, Tenn., June 26, 1824. His Alabama home was in Selma, where the funeral will be. The body probably will be taken from here Thursday.

Senator Morgan had held many important offices besides that of senator, including membership in the Hawaiian laws commission, and arbitrator on the Bering sea fisheries.

lowing four candidates: George Webster, Ralph Frazier, Otto Weeden and Warren Poindexter.

The nomination of officers to serve for the ensuing six months was opened last night, the result being as follows:

Floyd O. Williams—Sachem.
David Bulkley—Senior sagamore.
Carl Egdorff, John Bremer, Will Cue, Ora and Wid Martin were all nominated for the office of junior sagamore.

Eugene Miller—Prophet.
"Bob" Harvey—Trustee for eighteen months.

great sachem.

RUEF IMPLICATES SCHMITZ

Says He Gave the Mayor Half of Bribery Money.

San Francisco, June 12.—In the Schmitz trial today with Abe Ruef on the stand the court overruled the objection of the defense to the question, "Did you in January, 1905, in the house at 2849 Fillmore street, give this defendant, Eugene Schmitz, $2500 in currency?"

Ruef replied in the affirmative.
This $2,500 is claimed by the defense to have been one-half of the $5,000 obtained from the French restaurants for the privilege of conducting their business.

WILL GET FULL PARDON

MISSISSIPPI GOVERNOR SAYS
HE WILL PARDON SLAYER OF DOCTOR.

SENATOR'S NIECE ALMOST WRECK

Executive Refuses Even to Examine Record Affirming Her Sentence—
She Is Not in Custody, Nor Will She Be

Jackson, Miss., June 12.—Mrs. Angie Birdsong, the slayer of Dr. Thomas Butler friend of her childhood and former family physician, will never don prison garb, despite the fact that her five-year penitentiary sentence has been affirmed by the supreme court.

Within five minutes after the sentence of the lower court was affirmed in the higher tribunal, Governor Vardaman granted a respite to Mrs.
Birdsong that will keep her from the penitentiary until a petition for pardon can be prepared and be presented. The chief executive will theregrant a full and unconditional pardon to the woman who invoked the "unwritten law" in her own behalf.

Governor Vardaman states positively that he will grant the pardon without even the formality of examining the supreme court record, or reading the evidence on which Mrs. Birdsong was convicted. He believes that justice should be tempered with mercy, and, irrespective of whether or not Mrs. Birdsong was justifiable in killing Dr. Butler, that she should not be compelled to serve a five-year term in prison, and he there-spare her the humilispending a brief pe-
ment.

Mrs. Birdsong is almost a wreck as a result of the nervous ordeal through which she has passed since the memorable tragedy in the village of Monticello on December 23, 1905.
She has been for several years almost an invalid.

After receiving news that her sentence had been affirmed, Mrs. Birdsong left for Hazlehurst in custody of Deputy Sheriff Sanders, where she will remain until final action is taken on the pardon petition, which has been placed in circulation. She will not be kept in custody, however, the governor's respite being accompanied by an assurance that the $10,000 bond will hold good.

Public sympathy is unquestionably with the woman, and the governor's action was not in the least unexpected. He is familiar with the tragedy.
The supreme court mandate was transmitted by Clerk Meyers to Sheriff Hamilton, of Copiah county, but the governor's respite will act as a supersedeas.

Under the constitution, the chief executive is without power to grant a pardon until a petition has been published for thirty days, but when the document reaches the executive office it will obtain his signature.

Mrs. Birdsong is a niece of United States Senator McLaurin, of Mississippi, and Dr. Butler, whom she killed, was a cousin of ex-Governor Longino, of this state.

THE CALL OF THE WILD.

The call of the wild is just now something fierce and it is a wonder that it is not staged. The animal world is certainly doing marvelous things, and the conversation of Br'er Rabbit and Br'er Wolf have grown commonplace. Many remarkable things have been chronicled of late and in each instance are vouched for by reliable editors.

In the county of Pike a newspaper gives particulars of an attack made by a twenty-five pound turtle on a hog. The tortoise crawled into the feed lot and nipped a porker by the nose. Then it hung and it was not until the turtle's head was chopped off by the farmer's hatchet that the death grip was released.

The Houston Post has personal knowledge of a species of black bass exclusively upon live

The New York World tells of an up-state hen that lays eggs with Latin inscriptions on them.

The El Paso Herald cites oysters weighing 300 pounds each.

A Lexington journal presents rats that devour shoats.

A Charleston man has a pet bull frog that will eat nothing but English sparrows.

An Indiana man has a rooster that crows three times at 3 o'clock in the morning, four times at 4 o'clock and so on.

The editor of the Atlanta Journal says that a Georgia man has a pet mocking bird that has been bringing him a bunch of violets every summer morn for four summers.

The Louisville-Courier Journal tells of a parrot that for eleven years at 11 o'clock each day harranged a Versailles household in favor of free silver at 16 to 1.

Each of these cases is verified by highly respectable and truth-loving newspapers, says the Quincy (Ill.) Herald, and adds that it had for years a tame oyster in its aquarium that would come to the surface and sneeze whenever cayenne pepper was sprinkled on the surface of the water. There was also a young cod fish that would wag its tail whenever the editor would bark his shins.

This is surely a world of wonders.

THE GREATEST PHOTO.

In conjunction with the semi-centennial celebration of the Michigan agricultural college, a photograph was taken of Mr. Roosevelt in an automobile that when printed will be the largest photograph in the world.
The largest photograph today is said to be five feet high. It is planned to print the present photographic plate 12 feet by 15, more than four times as large as the former record print.
In order to do this it was necessary to rent a special building with an extra large door, and improvise a dark room of mammoth proportions.

The original photograph taken was "snapped" with an eight by ten-inch camera. From the negative an eight by ten positive was made, and, after adjusting the camera for still larger plates, an eleven by fourteen taken.
From this a positive of the same dimensions was made, and then the camera was changed so as to make a negative fourteen by seventeen inches. With this negative properly touched up so as to eliminate any exaggerations due to the multiplicity of plates, the camera will be fitted up with the usual "throw-up" sliding frame, which will permit of focusing for a picture 12 by 15 feet. The completed photograph will be made from this negative in a series of stripes sixty inches wide. The bromide paper alone will cost upward of $200.

THE ITCHING PALM.

One of the truest statements made by advocates of municipal ownership is that it would put an end to bribery of public officials and public service corporations. It certainly would wherever that is practiced. But it wouldn't put an end to bribeable officials, and unless the city should manufacture its own engines, machinery, street cars, electric lamps and other supplies, the quality and price of these would be largely regulated by such officials.

Every one who is familiar with public schools management knows that orders for school books and supplies are in some cities obtainable only by crossing the palms of members of school boards with a liberal supply of gold, and that a change of text books is frequently ordered merely because of their itching palms.

Municipal ownership will not change human nature, and venal officials can hold up manufacturing companies just as easily and profitably as they can lighting and traction companies.

Did it ever occur to you that a corporation isn't anxious to get rid of its money that way? But public servants who are zealous, not for the public welfare, but for their private purse, will find a way of getting their price, and more readily under public than under private ownership.

The story of Orchard's mass of murders and assassinations is perhaps the most harrowing thing ever heard in a criminal court. His evidence must receive strong corroboration before it can be accepted as true that Haywood and the rest of the federation of miners' officials inspired the crimes. But if there is proof that even a quarter of the deeds were planned or ordered by the defendants there should be no travesty on justice. Haywood should hang.

In his confession concerning the blowing up of the Vindicator mine, Harry Orchard says that the plan was suggested to him by Parker and Davis. Can it be possible that the placid democratic nominees were really such explosive persons as all that?

Harry Orchard seems to be the champion criminal of all time, according to his own story. If there is any offense on the calendar he has not yet committed he is still open for engagements.

A laborer, who was asked by a farmer to whom he applied for a job if he could cradle, said he could all right, but would rather have a job out doors.

OTHER COLD 'SUMMERS'

SNOW AND SLEET ON FOURTH OF JULY WAS NOT UNCOM-MON THING.

HAVE BEEN OTHER COLD SPRINGS

One Independence Day Hot Lemonade Was Served, According to a Writer in the Springfield, Mass., Republican.

The first weather of which I have any recollection was July 4, 1844, says a writer in the Springfield, Mass., Republican.

There was a great celebration in the middle of the town of Vernon, Vt., it may have had some political significance. I do not remember. The men drew pine trees and set them in the ground on Meeting House hill to make the pavilion, in which the tables were set for the banquet. There were exercises and an oration in the church, a procession and the local militia turned out. Major Lee and other Revolutionary war veterans were conspicuous.

My father was in the military company with epaulets of silver fringe and tassels on his shoulders, and my mother in a white gown and a white parasol with green figures, marched with the procession and sang in the choir. And I remember that the parasol gave way for a Highland shawl, that everybody suffered with the cold and that there were snow flakes in the air, if not a regular snowfall; and of Dr. Cyrus Washburne, the marshal of the day, coming to my grandmother, under whose wing I was, for a cup of hot tea, and making one of his facetious remarks about Providence playing into his hands, that he might have plenty of business for the remainder of the summer, and her rebuking him for his irreverence, as he intended she should, there being always some sort of a lively tilt between the two.

In June, 1852, there was a thunder shower during which there was a fall of snow and sleet that covered the ground to a depth of several inches. I remember how my father's well kept garden in West Northfield looked, with the corn, peas, onions and other early vegetables sticking up through the snow; and that as we were walking about in the snow, Eastman Belding came along, and,
stopping in a neighborly fashion to exchange experiences about the weather, he said:

"Had you heard the news that Franklin Pierce, of New Hampshire, got the nomination for president yesterday? My Republican came just before I left home, and I saw it in that."

And my father said: "He will be elected, but he's a nobody; why did they not nominate somebody while they were about it? There are plenty in the spring."

The spring of 1865 was nearly, if not quite, as backward as this. I remember hearing a man remark that pestilence and famine always followed a war, and that the late spring betokened the famine. I also recall that a large garden was ploughed and planted that year on July 4, and there was a good crop and a quick one. The vegetables could almost be seen to grow.

One Fourth of July, in the late sixties, I think, I remember of hot lemonade being served at our home in West Northfield; and a few days later in Belchertown, where I was on a visit, I remember hearing Mrs. D.
Thompson say that she had not had her stove taken from her sitting room, and of the fire she had on Independence day, and that previously throughout the season she had had a fire much of the time.

People forget; the seasons do not differ so much after all. This is a cold spring, but there have been others.

TINY BABY THAT TALKS

INFANT ONLY NINE DAYS OLD TELLS OF HEAVEN BACK IN VIRGINIA.

CHILD'S HEARERS FLEE IN PANIC

Calls the Names of Its Parents and Grandparents, Following Each Name With the Single Word, "Heaven."

The Fox Postoffice neighborhood of Grayson county, this state, is in a state of excitement and perplexity as a result of the prodigious performance of a nine-day-old child, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Leftwich Brewer, writes a Braoke, Va., correspondent.

W. E. Daniel, a traveling man of Chilhowie, Va., who has just returned from the place, brings news of the consternation caused by the baby talking perfectly, and Dr. G. B. Halsey, the reputable physician of Bridle Creek, a neighboring postoffice, has corroborated the story. Dr. Halsey furnished the following data, which is unimpeachable.

Mrs. Belle Brewer, wife of Leftwich Brewer, a thrifty farmer living near the North Carolina line, and whose postoffice address is Fox, Va., two weeks ago gave birth to a normally developed boy baby. The little fellow thrived like any healthy newcomer.

When the child was nine days old Thomas Brewer, a brother of Leftwich Brewer, together with his wife and other relatives and neighbors, went to visit the home in which the stork so recently had paid a call.
While Mrs. Thomas Brewer was holding the baby in her arms, congratulating the proud parents, the little one suddenly began talking.

It called the names of its parents and grandparents and of other relatives present, following each name with the word "heaven," the articulation being perfect.

This behavior on the part of the nine-day-babe so excited and scared the party that many fled from the house in dismay, believing that something terrible was about to take place.
Every word spoken by the child was repeated three times, and this only served to intensify the chill cast over those who heard the voice.

News of the actions of the latest arrival in the Brewer home spread through the vicinity like wildfire, but threw the section into a state of per-turbation.

The child died yesterday, and the excitement has somewhat subsided, but the people are yet in a maze of wonderment, having never before seen or heard of anything like it.
Many are said to be living in fear lest the child's death will be followed by some terrible catastrophe.

PLAYERS ARE PLEASED

WHEN RAIN FALLS AND SCHEDULED BALL GAME CANNOT BE PULLED OFF.

THIS APPLIES TO BIG LEAGUES

Yarns By Hugh Fullerton of Games That Have Been Stopped By Rains—Sometimes Dampness is Artificial.

"No game, rain," is one of the bright spots in the life of a ball player. The deluge that brings sorrow to the fans and dismay to the management always is greeted with delight by the weary players—and with especial delight toward the end of a hard season, when there is but small chance to play off the postponement, writes Hugh Fullerton, prince of baseball story tellers.

It is on these rainy days that things are doing around the hotels. The first drop of rain is the signal for the poker games to start, and with a dozen players, all vulgarly healthy, cooped up in one hotel, and usually on one floor, there are certain to be things started.

When there is a game on the presence of a ball club in a big hotel is scarcely noticed by the other guests, but on rainy days the hotel management usually has its own troubles.

There was a game stopped by rain at Cament, a little town below San Bernardino, Cal., last winter, which the umpire never called. In spite of the fact, however, it was stopped all right.

The ball grounds were at the edge of town in a beautiful valley in the midst of vegetable gardens, strawberry patches, and a short distance up toward the foothills the orange groves began, and down below, perhaps 200 yards from the ball orchard, there was a river bed with a drop or two of water in it. Most of the bed of that river was as dry as a bone.

The team of Pomona was playing at Cament that Sunday afternoon, and the glorious sunshine of California was, for the first time in days, flooding the field. Perhaps two hundred rival rooters were present.

In the sixth inning, with Cament two runs behind, a cloud shot from one of the mountains and a little rain fell. Pomona wanted the game stopped, and Cament protested. The umpire decided to continue.

In the next inning a little more rain fell, and the argument was renewed. The players and umpire and most of the spectators were grouped in the field wrangling and arguing, when suddenly the center field fence started toward them, the center fielder ran, and an instant later a wall of water four feet high broke across the field. The umpire didn't wait to call the game. He saw that a cloud-burst up in the mountains had swelled the torrent, and he fled. Three of the players and perhaps a dozen spectators came near being washed away before they reached the higher ground.

Mill creek, working in conjunction with the Ohio river at Cincinnati, once interrupted a game and caused one of the oddest decisions ever given. The Poplar Stars were playing down in the Liberty street bottoms against Jake Stenzel's team. This was before Jake broke into fast company. George Yeager, Barry McCormick, Big Mick Ryan, Eddie Ash, and a lot of others who afterward shone in baseball, were playing on the Poplar Star team—and on that afternoon in April they were enjoying the rare pleasure of playing in an inclosed ground—which had been the property of some gun club.

The Ohio was on the rampage, and for the third time in the spring had reached flood stage. On that afternoon, late in the game, one of Stenzel's hit a long fly to left. The fielder went after it—and just as he did so the left field fence started toward him, carried on the crest of a huge wave of backwater which had piled up in Mill creek. The fence came so rapidly that the ball went over it—and the left fielder turned and fled. In two minutes the entire space was inundated and the players and spectators were squatting on a railway embankment and trying to fish out floating bats.

Then the argument arose. The Poplar Stars, who were a run ahead, claimed the game, while the Stenzel crowd argued that, as the ball went over the fence, it was a home run, and that they won.

The umpire finally decided that he had called the game on account of wet grounds and that the score reverted to a tie.

The meanest wet ground game ever played, however, was pulled off at Mowry, N. M., a few years ago. There was a great rivalry between the team at Mowry and the team representing Nutts, on the other side of the mountains. The Mowry team was composed almost entirely of cowpunchers, led by Dan Taylor, the cowboy wonder, who once pitched against the Chicago National league team, and with his spurs on at that. The Nutts team was composed mainly of miners and railway men, so, naturally, there was great rivalry, and much coin was wagered on the outcome. Nutts is on the east side of the Mimbres range and Mowry on the west. Nutts is on the edge of the mountains, on sloping ground, and Mowry, while it stands right at the base of Cook's peak, is situated in flat ground, irrigated, and alongside the Mimbres river. The ball ground is near where the old Santa Fe trail crosses the Mimbres.

There the teams met in daily combat, and beef steers were wagered against copper claims and lead mines with reckless disregard of values.

At the beginning of the eighth inning Mowry was leading by a score of 15 to 9, and Danny Taylor was pitching in great shape, using his famous lariat curve. Suddenly, however, in the first of the eighth Taylor hurt his arm and retired in favor of Bill Stratton, and Nutts began to crack the ball (no pun intended.) A regular team of Nutts players swarmed around the bases, and they had scored sixteen runs, with only one out, when "Blondy" Kiskadden decided to take a hand.

"Blondy" wasn't in the game, but he had some $250 in cash and about forty head of steers wagered, and he didn't propose to lose to a bunch of miners and sheep herders from the Rio Grande side of the hills. He bestrode his horse and spurred up the valley.

About five minutes later, with a score 31 to 15, and two out, there came a rush of water that flooded the irrigation ditches, poured over the field and broke up the game.

"Blondy" had opened the gates and let half the water out of the reservoir, but he had saved Mowry, so there was no kick from the ranchers who had suffered from the flood and loss of the precious water.

Comiskey ran against a wet grounds postponement at San Francisco once, where two grasping native sons, seeking to beast easterners, were hoist by their own petard. They had guaranteed Comiskey's team $1,400 for the afternoon's game, and had put up certified checks to bind their agreement. Rain fell intermittently all morning, but not

Women as Well as Men Are Made

Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine smells the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root, pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

enough to stop play, yet the native sons would not give up. The idea of a small crowd and the payment of $1,400 after taking in perhaps $250 jarred them.

Comiskey happened to stray into the park about noon and found the native sons busily working with fire hose, flooding the grounds, and making them too wet for play. He called witnesses, watched the entire performance and waited. That afternoon the sun shone brightly, thousands flocked to the park to see the champions, but the game was called on account of wet grounds.

One of the men who attempted to turn the trick and beat the easterners out of their money later became a great prize fight manager, and later broke into the theatrical business. He has prospered and grown rich, but it is not recorded that he has ever turned the hose on to any grounds since then to save the guarantee money.

But, in spite of that, he has had imitators even in big leagues, who have helped out nature in making the grounds too wet to play, especially in the days when the home clubs guaranteed certain sums to visitors.

Killing One Officer and Wounding Another—May Be Lynched.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 12.—Lee Tabor, a railroader, last night shot and killed Officer James Francisco and shot Tom Hunt, another officer, both of whom were attempting to arrest him.

Tabor pulled his gun as the officers approached and opened fire. He had three cartridges in his gun, and each took effect, two hitting Francisco and one hitting Hunt, going through his hand and glancing on his rib.

Francisco emptied his gun at Tabor, but one shot taking effect, that striking him in the back. He will recover.

Feeling is running high as a result of the shooting, and Tabor may be lynched.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—slightly weak, and must have more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it cures real, genuine heart ailment. If you would have strong Heart, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

THE CAT CAME BACK

After it Had Fallen Distance of Fifteen Stories.

Chicago, June 12.—This is a story about a cat, the pet of the Midway club, that fell 15 stories in the area way of the First National bank building and is alive and well.

The animal plunged from a window of the millionaires' lunch room on the eighteenth floor in the big loop skyscraper to the skylight of the bank quarters on the third floor. The heavy wire screening above the glass was bent and twisted by the impact and a few pieces of glass fell to one of the clerks' cages on the floor below, but the cat escaped uninjured. Fifteen minutes after the fall the animal returned to its quarters in the eighteenth floor lunchroom.

Choosing probable death down the light shaft in preference to a struggle with a Boston terrier, the animal leaped. As a group of the lunchers reached the window they heard a crash on the heavy glass skylight, 15 floors below.

All believed the cat had been crushed to death. A quarter of an hour later, while the "horrible death" was being discussed at a score of tables, the frightened cat came back. It slunk toward the kitchen and disappeared.

THEY TOLD THE WIFE

That Husband Had Lain for Weeks in Potter's Field.

Norwalk, Ohio, June 12.—When Mrs. Edward Ott, of this city, paid a visit to Charity hospital, at Cleveland, yesterday, she was startled by the information that her husband had died April 12, and was buried in the Potter's field in one of the city cemeteries, three days later.

Ott, who had been a helpless paralytic for six years, was taken to the Cleveland institution four years ago, members of the family visiting him at intervals. Mrs. Ott visited her husband April 5 and left him in his usual condition.

Mrs. Ott demanded an explanation of the matter, but hospital authorities were unable to tell why she had not been informed of her husband's death. The body will be disinterred and brought to this city.

Ott, who was 67 years old, is survived by a wife and three children.

YOUNG HUSBAND

Recently he shot himself with a target rifle, telling his wife, aged 70 years, that he wanted to make her happy.

Sunday, it is charged, he ran amuck with a gun, terrorizing the people of Middleburg.

Brought here his wife secured an attorney for him, but Knepper refuses his offices.

There are few flies or mosquitoes in Jamaica, but there are swarms of the most villainous ticks, which have to be guarded against continually. To walk across a pasture or, in fact, to step off a beaten path or roadway is regarded as a very foolish performance by a Jamaican. Strangers usually begin by running headlong into danger and then repeating in haste.

WIDOWS JOIN RICHES

CONTRACT OF IOWA WOMEN FOR BIDS EITHER TO MARRY.

Two Wearers of Weeds Combine Their Fortunes in Unique Instrument Which is Put on the Official Records.

Des Moines, Ia.—Widow Elenora Johnson, who lives near Avon, Ia., and Widow Lenora Ellsworth, of Bemidji, Minn., who has been visiting her, have drawn up and placed in the office of the county recorder one of the most remarkable contracts in the county records.

Believing that they could attain a wealth of prosperity and pleasure if they were to link their fortunes together for the remainder of their lives that would be impossible if they should continue to go it alone, the two women have placed their estates into a common fund. This they are to use in common, each doing her share of the work and paying expenses out of the treasury.

A unique provision of the contract is that each agrees not to marry again as long as the other is alive.

Mrs. Ellsworth has been visiting near Avon for several weeks and it was at her suggestion, it is understood, that the "merger" was effected. The contract reads as follows:

"Know All Men by These Presents: That Elenora Johnson, of Avon, Ia., party of the first part, and Lenora Ellsworth, of Bemidji, Minn., party of the second part, both being widows of sound and disposing mind and competent to contract, and being possessed of the following property, to-wit: The said party of the first part owning and possessing 20 acres of land situated in Polk county, Iowa, one dwelling house, one horse and buggy, two cows and five hogs; the party of the second part being the owner of 60 acres of timber land situated two miles from the same Bemidji, Minn., and each of the parties hereto having $200 in cash, and being desirous of forming a compact whereby each shall share in the profits arising out of the combined property of both, hereby enter into the following covenants and agreement, to-wit, witnesses:

"The parties hereto agree that neither shall marry during the life of the other; that they shall live together on the land owned by the party of the first part, each contributing equally toward the maintenance of both, and each performing an equal amount of the domestic labor requisite to the conduct of a neat, healthful and happy home; that if it be deemed expedient to dispose of any of the said described property the proceeds from the sale thereof shall be placed in a common fund which shall be the property of both, each having a one-half interest therein.

"It is further agreed by and between the parties hereto that each shall share in the expense of maintaining the said home and of all the disbursements.

"In witness whereof we have hereunto affixed our signatures this 28th day of March, A. D. 1937.

"Elenora Johnson.
"Lenora Ellsworth."

The contract was drawn in the office of a local attorney and turned over to the recorder.

TURNED THE TABLES

GOVERNOR HAD LAUGH ON THE WOULD-BE JOKERS.

Fact That Guest "Knew Champagne and Had No Prejudices Against It" Disconcerted Their Shrewdly Laid Plans.

The government of the new territory of Nevada was an interesting menagerie. Gov. Nye was an old and seasoned politician from New York—a politician, not statesman. He had white hair; he was in fine physical condition; he had a winningly friendly face and deep lustrous brown eyes that could talk as a native language the tongue of every feeling, every passion, every emotion. His eyes could out-talk his tongue, and this is saying a good deal, for he was a very remarkable talker, both in private and on the stump. He was a shrewd man; he generally saw through surfaces and perceived what was going on inside without being suspected of having an eye on the matter.

When grown-up persons indulge in practical jokes, the fact gauges them. They have lived narrow, obscure and ignorant lives, and at full manhood they still retain and cherish a job lot of left-over standards and ideals that would have been discarded with their boyhood if they had then moved out into the world and a broader life. There were many practical jokes in the new territory. I do not take pleasure in exposing this fact, for I liked those people, but what I am saying is true. I wish I could say a kinder thing about them instead—that they were burglars or hat-rack thieves, or something like that, that wouldn't be utterly uncomplimentary. I would prefer it, but I can't say those things; they would not be true. These people were practical jokers, and I will not try to disguise it. In other respects they were plenty good-enough people; honest people, reputable and likable. They played practical jokes upon each other with success, and got the admiration and applause and also the envy of the rest of the community. Naturally, they were eager to try their arts on big game, and that was what the governor was. But they were not able to score. They made several efforts, but the governor defeated these efforts without any trouble and went on smiling his pleasant smile as if nothing had happened. Finally the joker chiefs of Carson City and Virginia City conspired together to see if their combined talent couldn't win a very uncomfortable place; the people were laughing at them instead of at their proposed victim. They banded themselves together to the number of ten and invited the governor to what was a most extraordinary attention in those days—pickled oyster stew and champagne—luxuries very seldom seen in that region, and existing rather as fabrics of the imagination than as facts.

The governor took me with him. He said disparagingly:

"It's a poor invention. It doesn't deceive. Their idea is to get me drunk and leave me under the table, and from their standpoint this will be very funny. But they don't know me. I am familiar with champagne and have no prejudices against it."

The governor was serene, sober, comfortable, contented, happy and sober, although he was so full that he couldn't laugh without shedding champagne tears. Also at that hour the last joker joined his comrades under the table, drunk, to the last perfection. The governor remarked:

"This is a dry place, Sam. Let's go and get something to drink and go to bed."—North American Review.

Training Children.

When people learn the importance of properly training the children for whom they are responsible, there will be a new era on earth. The generation that devotes itself successfully to this task can afford to neglect most of the other problems that keep men too busy to know what their boys are doing, and when the children are trained as they should be, most of the other things will not need to be done. It is also quite possible that the people who successfully sacrifice themselves for their children will not lose anything themselves.

THE NEW REMEDY

Take It Now That Vacation Days Are Fast Approaching.

Thousands of men and women are anxiously looking forward to the vacation days that come in June, July and August—not so much for the pleasure or enjoyment as for the chance of getting rid of their ill-health.

To thoroughly drive away troubles of the stomach most people think they have to make a business of it with dieting, exercise, and perhaps a vacation.

But Mion-a stomach tablets taken with regularity in a very few days will drive away indigestion, fizzy spells, distress after eating, head aches, sleeplessness, and the many other symptoms of bad digestion and sluggishness of the digestive organs that keep people from enjoying themselves.

Day after day, at work behind desks or in the factory with poor sunlight and air, soon results in sluggishness of the entire physical and mental apparatus. The first slight symptoms of indigestion can be easily cured, but when they are allowed to increase without any help, then the stomach complaints become hard to shake off.

Strengthen the whole digestive system with Mion-a and you will soon find that both stomach and bowels do their work as they should.

W. E. Bard Drug Co. sell Mion-a in 50-cent boxes and guarantee to refund the money if the remedy does not give complete satisfaction.

The West Point Tone.

The habit of truth-telling, the virtue of absolute honesty, the ready and loyal obedience to authority, the display of courage, that virtue called regal—this tone, which is the very life and breath of the military academy, traces back to a fine source, to the character of Washington and the best society at the time of the revolution—Morris Schaff, in Atlantic Monthly.

Women Journalists.

I am always careful not to recommend any girl starting life to embark on a journalistic career unless she is capable of great physical endurance and has indomitable perseverance; both are indispensable. She must also possess great moral courage, for that, too, will be tried.—Young Woman.

TWO FARMS ARE SOLD

Both Near Houstonia and Brought Good Prices.

John Hammock yesterday purchased the farm of S. Morgenstern, consisting of 120 acres, the consideration being $65 per acre, says the Houstonian. Mr. Hammock will not take possession until next March. Mr. Morgenstern is undecided as to where he will locate, but we hope he will see fit to purchase another farm in this neighborhood.

Character Formation.

My character to-day is, for the most part, simply the resultant of all the thoughts I have ever had, of all the feelings I have ever cherished, and of all the deeds I have ever performed. It is the entirety of my previous years packed and crystallized into the present moment.—Parkhurst.

A Happy Accident.

We ask God to forgive us for our evil thoughts and evil temper, but rarely if ever ask Him to forgive us for our sadness. Joy is regarded as a happy accident of our Christian life, an ornament and a luxury, rather than a duty.—R. W. Dale.

FOUR MEDALS AWARDED

At the Recital by Pupils of Miss Sallie Major.

The First Christian church was crowded to its utmost capacity last night, where the music lovers of Sedalia enjoyed a rare treat listening to one of the most beautiful and interesting programs ever given in Sedalia, by twenty-four pupils under the instruction and direct supervision of Miss Sallie Major.

The following pupils contested for the handsome gold medal: Margaret Lingle, Minnie Porter, Marian Thomson, Woodbridge, Fay Armstrong, Mayme Klink and Mark Ferrell. The first medal was awarded to Miss Marian Thomson Woodbridge for her execution of "Faust." The second prize in this contest was awarded to Mark Ferrell for his execution of the solo, "Lily of the Valley."

It was announced that a gold medal would also be given the pupil whose progress showed the greatest advancement for the first year's study of music. In this part of the program there were two pupils, Mildred King and Millard Ferrell, whose progress was so creditable and so nearly identical that a difference could hardly be distinguished, consequently a gold medal was given to each.

The evening's entertainment was a great success, and in the large audience nothing could be heard but words of praise for Miss Major as a competent instructor in the art of music.

HE STOLE A TRAIN

After a Swift Run He Returned It to the Crew.

Bellingham, Wash., June 12.—The Great Northern Seattle-Bellingham local train was at 10 o'clock Monday night stolen from the depot where it was left for a few minutes while the crew went to lunch, by Barkley McCutcheon, a well known character of this town.

Jumping into the cab, McCutcheon threw open the throttle and away the train shot, going north at terrific speed. The bell was ringing and the whistle blowing continually.

The train crew rushed for a speeder and followed until it was discovered that the man at the valve had reversed the train and was returning south. He had the train under full speed and it was only by a miracle that the pursuing crew were able to get off the track.

McCutcheon later stopped the train, bringing it to an abrupt stop and causing a friction that nearly ignited the iron.

McCutcheon, who is about 22 years of age, was very much pleased with his experience and under the excitement of the numerous narrow escapes was very nervous. He was taken to the city prison and locked up.

PICTURES FOR PATIENTS

Chicago Woman Plans a Circulating Art Gallery for Hospitals.

Chicago, June 12.—The destitute sick and hospital patients unable to afford the luxuries of life are to become the beneficiaries of a unique charity, consisting of a circulating art gallery, which is to be established this week by Mrs. Sheldon Leavitt, an artist of note and wife of a physician.

Mrs. Leavitt will take personal charge of the work. It is intended that the paintings be changed from time to time in the different sick rooms in the belief that interest thus created will be beneficial to convalescent and even to hopeless cripples.

Mrs. Leavitt says she has become weary of the aimless round of society and club activities and she proposes to withdraw almost entirely from them and devote her talents and the remainder of her life to charitable work among the sick of Chicago.

Each of the paintings will be the work of Mrs. Leavitt herself and each visit of a picture will be followed by a visit from the painter.

"No," answered the news man. "But why do you ask?"

"Well, a friend told me this morning that it was a county road; but I assured him that it wasn't, or otherwise the disgraceful mud holes in the paving in front of the First M. E. church would be abolished by filling them up with a few wagon loads of macadam!"

THE ASYLUM SCANDAL

EVIDENCE FOR DR. C. R. WOODSON WAS HEARD AT TUESDAY'S SESSION.

WIFE CONFIDENT OF INNOCENCE

She So Stated Last Night—Witnesses Point to the Physical Impossibility of the Maloney "Story."

St. Joseph, Mo., June 12.—The tide of battle yesterday turned in favor of Dr. Woodson at the investigation of charges against him at Insane Hospital No. 2. He was able to show by physical facts that the story told by Cornelius Maloney, who testified that he saw Dr. Woodson and Miss Minnie Everline in a compromising position was untrue.

Maloney said he looked through a hole in the floor. This was shown to be impossible by the testimony of Dr. J. C. Smith, who has charge of ward No. 13, where Maloney says he saw things.

Miss Effie Evans, matron of the institution, was before the board from 5:30 until nearly 9 o'clock last night, with an interruption of half an hour for dinner.

Miss Evans has been at the hospital for eighteen years and perhaps knows more about the institution than anyone else, Dr. Woodson, possibly, excepted. She said that Dr. Woodson had not made presents to Miss Minnie Everline, as charged by Miss Boyle, but the several articles mentioned, including a diamond ring, were bought by Miss Everline with her own money. Miss Evans says she was present when some of the purchases were made.

Mrs. C. R. Woodson made a statement for publication last night, in which she expresses every confidence in the innocence of her husband, and says she has done and will continue to do all she can to secure his vindication.

Judge A. M. Woodson, of the state supreme court, and a brother of Dr. C. R. Woodson, arrived from Jefferson City yesterday.

James Kelly, a painter, employed at the hospital, testified that Cornelius Maloney, the plumber, who gave sensational testimony against Woodson, approached him two years ago and suggested that they could make the doctor "come through" by spying upon him.

J. B. Maloney, the chief engineer at the institution, testified that it would have been a physical impossibility for Cornelius Maloney to have taken the course he described in his testimony last week, or to have gotten in the position he says he occupied in the manner described by him.

Miss Marie Van Pelt, a waitress in the officers' dining room, told the board that Mrs. Eleanor Davidson, of Dearborn, who testified against Dr. Woodson last week, was discharged for unhooking an inside elevator door at night and permitting a man to pull himself up on the elevator. Mrs. Davidson says the man brought her ice water.

TEN YEARS OF LIBERTY LOST

By the "Trusty" When He Made a Dash for Liberty.

Trenton, N. J., June 11.—Reuben Strickland, who escaped from the state prison here, where he was serving a thirty-year term for murder, was recaptured at Metuchen, while en route to New York to sail for Europe.

His brief liberty costs him 10 years more, which he had earned by previous good behavior, and postponed his discharge from 1919 to 1929. In addition he will have to spend six days in the dungeon and then go to hard labor in the shops, losing the soft snap of "trusty," which enabled him to escape.

Enos Fouratt, chief marshal of Metuchen, caught Strickland and got $50 for his trouble.

In the Waiting Room

By Emily Watson

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The notes of a popular song echoed sentimentally through the big station waiting room. With one accord the despondent occupants of the benches, turned to look in the direction whence it came. A young man had entered at the south door and was making his way across the floor. His clothes were those of the well-to-do mechanic; over his shoulder was slung a canvas bag of tools. Behind him came a colored porter bearing a step ladder.

The young man paused beneath the big station clock and glanced up at the dial. The hands pointed to nine, in open disregard of the fact that the afternoon sun was streaming in through the western windows. "Darn thing's taken to going two hours fast a day," explained the porter.

"Put the ladder here," said the young man, "and we'll soon see what's gone wrong." Still carolling, he mounted and began observations.

It still wanted three-quarters of an hour to the departure of the New York express, when a girl entered. She glanced round the room, then crossed over to the full length mirror, which hung on one of the walls. After a critical survey of herself she opened a satchel and drew out a hand-glass a comb and a perforated chamols powder bag. Raising her spotted veil she combed to a still greater height her already exaggerated pompadour, readjusted the angle of her hat, carefully powdered her face and studied in the hand-glass the result of her operations. Finally satisfied, she pulled down her veil, returned the toilet articles to the bag, and shut it with a snap. She smoothed down her jacket, hitched out of place by the raising of her arms, and then, shouldering well back, and with an exaggeration of the fashionable gait, she haughtily strolled to an empty bench and seated herself.

The clock-maker had finished his job to his liking, and was stowing away his instruments, preparatory to descending the ladder. At the sound of his singing the girl started, and looked nervously round.

"I Suppose You're Awfully Mad with Me."

"Jim!" she murmured incredulously. Then, after a moment's hesitation, rose and stealthily moved to a bench directly in front of the clock.

He caught sight of the girl and paused abruptly.

The girl was elaborately gazing in a direction away from the clock, and had assumed a pose calculated to show at once the lines of her figure, and the abstraction of her mind.

"Nelly," said the clock-maker, standing humbly before her, "Nelly"—Slowly she forced her thoughts and her eyes from the far distance, and looked him up and down. For a moment a little bewildered frown drew her neat eyebrows together, then a smile of enlightenment brought a dimple into play.

"Why, if it isn't Jim Morris!" she exclaimed.

"I came to fix the clock," he explained. "I'm a clock-maker, you know. But I suppose you've forgotten that as well as everything else."

"I've such a lot of gentlemen friends," she apologized, "and it's so long—"

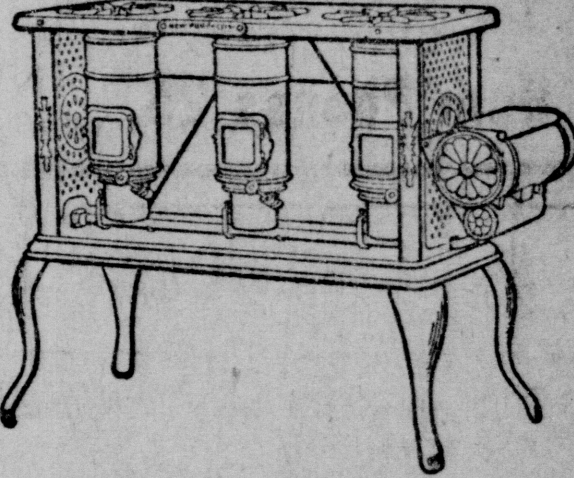

"It's only three months," said the young man, reproachfully. "I suppose," he went on dejectedly, as she sank into the bench, "I suppose you're awfully mad with me?"

"Why Mr. Morris, the idea!"

"Of course I ought to have known anyone as pretty as you was bound to have more fellows than one," he continued, "and I oughtn't to have chewed the rag when I saw you playing up to Michael Donovan, and swallowing his compliments as if they were 'Huyler's best,' but"—his voice grew choky—"you don't know, Nelly, how a chap feels when he loves a girl. Why, he'll plan for hours how to bring one kind look to her eyes, and he'll hug himself for days remembering a smile—and then when he sees her looking up to another man, and blushing and dimpling the way he's come to believe she only does for him—why it's awful—that's what it is," and he brought his hand so violently down on the bench that his tools were set a jingling. "But even if I was jealous," he went on, "that wasn't any reason I should have acted the way I did. Insulted you by refusing to take your word when you swore that you meant nothing—left you alone at the picnic to get home any old way you could, and gone off and snaked for three months. I don't deserve you should forgive me, and that's a fact."

"I'm sure I forgive you long ago," interrupted the girl softly.

"Nelly," incredulously. "But what are you doing at the station? Not going away? I couldn't stand for that you know, now I've got you again."

"I am going to New York."

"And so it's because you're going to New York that you are so fine, and look so pretty?"

"Do you like my things?" she asked, eagerly. "Do I look pretty, really and truly?"

"Your things are up in G, and you're as pretty as a picture, Nelly. But what's the use of words. If all these people weren't here I'd show you what I think of you. What are you going to do in New York?"

She looked at him sideways. "I am going," she said slowly, "I am going to be married to Michael."

He gave a gasp. "That's not true, he cried. She shrugged her shoulders. "Nelly," he besought, "forgive me. I shouldn't have said that, but you gave me a fright. I know it isn't true. I know you're just teasing me. But I've lost my nerve and I can't stand for it. Say you don't mean it."

"What's the use of my saying anything," she asked him, "when you think I'm not telling you the truth? I'm going to marry Michael Donovan. For two years I was straight to you, and put up with your jealousies and tempers, and turned down lots of better men because—well, because I was silly about you. But when you threw me off, and left me to be a public laughing stock, did you think I was going to put on sack cloth and ashes, till you got good and ready to come back to me? Not much!"

"You needn't say any more," interrupted the man, "I quite understand, Miss McCullough. Well, I hope you'll be happy and have lots of good luck."

He lifted his hat with awkward dignity, and turning on his heel, marched towards the door.

The girl watched his retreating form with frightened eyes, then "Jim," she called, almost under her breath, "Jim." He heard her and came striding back.

"Well?" he demanded. "I—I didn't speak," she stammered. "I beg your pardon, I thought you did. 'Oh, Nelly,' he cried, 'you can't mean to do this thing. If Michael were a decent sort I'd not have a word to say. But he isn't. Why, he hasn't a friend in the world. It was knowing the things I do about him that made me so riled when I saw him hanging round you. Nelly, even if it's all over now, I ask you, please wait!'"

The girl gazed at him spellbound, her hands nervously opening and closing.

"Why, Nelly," with a sudden joyful conviction, "I believe you love me still."

"Oh, Jim," she sobbed, "I do—I do. But I've given Michael my word, and I'll have to keep it."

ny look here, Nelly," he pleaded, it's a question of keeping promise, you promised me long before you promised Michael, and it's the first promise that holds in law, you know."

"East bound express, stopping at Hudson, Poughkeepsie and New York," chanted the station official. The girl made to rise to her feet, but the clock-maker's arm drew her back.

"Sweetheart," he whispered, "you don't want to go and marry Michael do you?"

"No," said the girl. "I don't want to marry Michael, but—"

"But what?"

"Well, you see," she explained, "it's like this: I told all the girls at the store that I was going to get married, and about my trip to New York, and if I go back and tell them there wasn't any wedding, and there wasn't any trip, why they'll josh me to death. Jim—it's dreadful for me to say it—but you love me, don't you Jim? Let's go away to New York, you and me, now, and let us get married. Then they couldn't throw anything up to me."

"But Nelly," he protested, taken aback, "what would the boss say if I went off at a moment's notice that way?"

"I guess he'd say nothing, seeing you went to be married."

"Look at my clothes," he cried. "And, sweetheart, I haven't the money to buy a ticket, let alone to get married with."

"I've got the money, Jim," she whispered, "$50 I've saved."

"Nelly," he said, desperately, "I can't take your money like that. I'd be a regular sponge."

"East bound express, stopping at Hudson, Poughkeepsie and New York. All aboard," called the official with a tone of finality.

"Oh, well," the girl acquiesced, "I don't wonder after the way I've behaved that you don't want to marry me."

"Not want to marry you?" cried the clock-maker, "not want—hold on there," he shouted to the gateman, "we're going." Thrusting his arm through the girl's they ran together as the closing wicket.

AH! THE ENTICING RINK!

Florence Would Skate and Lost a Husband, But Wins Another.

Marion, Ohio, June 12.—The marriage of Mrs. Florence Thomas, divorced wife of Paul Castner, a former well-known high school athlete, to Jay M. Miller, a wealthy Richmond grain dealer, has created a stir in Marion society circles.

Two months ago Mrs. Miller, daughter of former Postmaster Thomas, secured a divorce from Castner after being married less than a year. She complained that Castner would refuse to speak to her for weeks, although being in the same house. Mrs. Castner's attendance at a skating rink is said to have started the trouble.

TO GIVE $100,000 A YEAR

IN THE WAY OF ALIMONY IS CERTAINLY NOT TO BE SNEEZED AT.

HOWARD GOULD WOULD DO THIS

If Mrs. Gould insists on $250,000 Annually the Case Will Be Fought to the Bitter End by the Rich New Yorker.

New York, June 12.—Howard Gould is considering the advisability of starting a counter suit for separation against his wife. Such an action, he thinks, would lessen the chances of Mrs. Gould's obtaining a court decree for alimony of $250,000 a year.

Mr. Gould said yesterday, through one of his friends, that he would be perfectly willing to set aside a sufficient sum for the support of his wife, but that he certainly would not entertain a demand for a quarter of a million dollars a year.

"Not only is such a sum ridiculously large," said Mr. Gould's friend, "but Mr. Gould thinks, owing to the conduct of Mrs. Gould during the last three years they lived at Castle Gould, she has no valid claim for such a sum."

"It is likely that Mr. Gould would be willing to give his wife $100,000 a year alimony, although he has never said so directly."

"I feel sure that Mr. Gould would consent to a settlement of the suit on that basis. But if the other side continues to push its case and demands the quarter of a million a year, Mr. Gould will, in all probability, enter a counter suit, alleging his wife's temper is such that life with her is impossible; that her actions constantly humiliated him and she is inordinately extravagant."

"Certainly Mr. Gould is not going to sit quietly under her accusations against his character. He no longer loves her and he knows that she no longer loves him. There is nothing left but the wish not to be 'done.' Before the case is through there will be revelations far greater than already have been made."

Briefs of the argument between Delancey Nicol attorney for Howard Gould, and Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, were submitted to Supreme Court Justice McCall, and a decision is looked for in a few days. The argument took place last Thursday and was on a motion by Mr. Nicol to strike out three allegations from Mrs. Gould's bill of complaint.

PLEADED FOR MURDERER

Who Had Been Truly Devoted to Wife and Son.

Columbus, Ohio, June 12.—Mrs. Leslo Dehannish and her son, a young man, pleaded in vain with Governor Harris today for the pardon of a husband and father.

About 15 years ago Dehannish left Hungary to seek his fortune in America, taking up the new life at Cleveland. Nothing more was heard of him by his family until recently, when they discovered that he not only occupied a cell in the penitentiary, but that he was also insane.

Dehannish, it seems, was not as faithful to his wife as she was to him in his present predicament. He became jealous of a fellow countryman on account of another woman, and with two pals laid in wait, and on Shaker Heights, near Cleveland, murdered him. One of the parties to the crime was executed in 1892, while the other, a mere boy, was pardoned by the late Governor Nash in 1902.

Mrs. Dehannish, although she had never heard of her husband in a dozen years, is now willing to take him to Chicago and nurse him back to health, but the chief executive will not be a party to his freedom.

MET FIRST AND LAST

On the Picket Line During the Late Civil War.

Columbus, Ohio, June 12.—Forty-six years ago Captain John F. Oliver, of the Twenty-fifth regiment, Ohio volunteers, was relieved of picket duty by Captain Andrew L. Harris, of the same command.

Yesterday Captain Oliver called upon Governor Andrew L. Harris to request his presence at the exercises given at the Y. M. C. A., at Steubenville, next Wednesday, and he accepted. His only introduction was their meeting and parting on the battlefield.

Captain Harris had just returned to camp after nursing the wounds he had received at the battle of McDowell, W. Va., when he was detailed to relieve Captain Oliver. Neither ever forgot the circumstance, though they never met again until yesterday. Oliver's three months' service was at an end, while Harris veteranized and fought three years longer, winning the straps of a colonel.

It was that war-time incident that made it so easy for Captain Oliver to secure an acceptance from the governor.

SLEUTH RAISED HANDS

Heavenward While Robbers Looted Desk Before His Eyes.

Dayton, Ohio, June 12.—A private detective, H. R. Church, employed by the Reist agency in this city, and who patrols the manufacturing district, reports to the police department that he was "covered" with a pistol by a big negro at 2:30 yesterday morning as he approached the W. F. Kramer company's establishment, and that he was forced to stand there with his hands up while a white man, a pal of the negro, rifled the desk in the office of the concern.

The burglary was committed in full view of the detective and with the electric light turned on. When the job had been completed the pair escaped. Church claims he was threatened with death if he made even the slightest outcry.

(Referring now to the "Rev. G. That some three years ago (McNeill), a colored Baptist, Pa. Aler, of Kansas the exception of some of his folks' fancy such a union and acted all out pro tem" during its organization, but has heard nothing of it and doesn't know whether it exists. In Belvidere, Mo., which may be his union has made in Sunday school, is not recognized in its Sunday school virtues as and the Associated Charity workers who are called there almost have never heard of his organization in connection with that or other part of Kansas City, Mo., as they were asked to look up this matter and finally found it as above. Leave it to you and your readers' guess as to where their money has been which they gave as an "endorsement" to this work. Respectfully—P. Faris.

REGARDING RAILROADS

WILL FIGHT THE 2-CENT FARE LAW IN NO LESS THAN FIVE STATES.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Western railroad executive officers held a conference in Chicago yesterday and decided to contest the 2-cent passenger laws in at least five states, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas. Following this decision, the passenger agents of all the western roads agreed not to grant any reduced rates for any occasion until the 2-cent fight shall have been concluded.

While the passenger men were in session they were presented with the copy of the letter written by Secretary Moseley, of the interstate commerce commission, to F. C. Donald, chairman of the Central Passenger association, stating that the plan proposed for putting National Educational association rates into effect is clearly illegal and can not be tolerated by the commission.

In pursuance of the decision of the railroads to fight the 2-cent fare laws and not to grant reduced rates, the Chicago Merchants' association, the St. Louis Merchants' association and other similar organizations will be told that rates for merchants' meetings are no longer available.

Yesterday H. C. Barlow, representing the Chicago Commercial association, and Messrs. Saunders and Crandall, representing the St. Louis Merchants' association, were granted hearings before the joint meeting of the eastern and western passenger men. Mr. Barlow declared that Chicago had been greatly benefited commercially by merchants' rates, and that the railroads had, as a result also received benefits. He thought it would be a mistake to cut off reduced rates for such gatherings, both from the standpoint of Chicago and of the railroads. He asked for the old rate of one and one-fifth fares for the round trip, provided the interstate rate of 3 cents is to be maintained, or one and one-half fares provided a 2-cent rate prevails.

With regard to the 2-cent laws, the presidents of the various roads stated that they felt that the courts would sustain them. It could easily be shown that a 2-cent rate in the western and middle western states is not a fair, remunerative rate. In view of the fact that they were going to contest this rate they felt that it was best not to grant any rate which were below this figure. This decision will cut off clergymen, charity workers, state conventions, sisters of charity, and every class of people who have enjoyed cheap rate privileges for many years and will place fares upon a strict 2-cent basis.

The ruling of the commission in the National Educational association case came like a thunderbolt. The western roads have all filed their rates and have spent large sums in advertising the convention, which is to take place in Los Angeles.

The regular meeting of the Central association passenger lines will be held today, when it is expected fully twenty-five applications for conventions and gatherings will be refused.

In future Missouri Pacific train No. 8 will wait at Pleasant Hill for L. and S. train No. 204, unless orders from the train dispatcher direct differently.

Superintendent N. J. Finney, of the Katy, was called to Parsons, Kan., last night to assist in arranging a new time card, reported to go into effect on June 23.

A vacancy for brakeman exists on the Sedalia-Nevada local, with Sunday lay over in Sedalia. If not filled within ten days the place will be filled by an older man.

LOST MARRIAGE LICENSE

Then It Was the Ceremony Was Called Off Temporarily.

Joseph Bradbury, of Beaman, aged over 80 years, and Dora Savage, a laundress of this city, were granted a marriage license several days ago. The time for the ceremony was set for last night, to be performed at the home of Mrs. Polly Bryant Howe.

Justice of the Peace Clark was called to officiate, but when he arrived the intended groom had lost the marriage license.

Deputy Recorder Scott was called up by telephone and asked if a license had been issued. The reply came in the affirmative.

Bradbury asked Judge Clark to perform the ceremony, nevertheless, and he would get another license today. This Judge Clark refused to do and the ceremony was called off.

WORE CLOTHES OF A BOY

WIFE WHO ASSISTED HER HUSBAND IN COMMITTING ROBBERIES.

A VERY SMOOTH ARTIST, INDEED

Climbed Through Transom for Her Husband's Robber Gang—Several Cities "Worked" in Ohio.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 12.—Bessie Metzdorf, 17 years old, has confessed to the police that she assisted her husband, Otto Metzdorf, and his gang, to loot fashionable homes in the East End.

On these expeditions she was attired in boy's clothes. The gang were expert transom climbers, getting through the smallest holes, a fact which was accounted for when the girl admitted that she did the transom work and then admitted the rest of the gang.

In practically every case they stole only money, and they eluded arrest by moving often as well as making frequent trips to Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo. The police in those cities have been communicated with, as it is thought the band committed robberies in all of them.

Often Metzdorf and his child wife worked alone, when he entered the Westworth pharmacy, 11400 Euclid avenue, two weeks ago, but was frightened away by the clerk sleeping therein, who fired at him. The clerk rushed to the front of the store and saw Metzdorf running away with a girl, Mrs. Metzdorf having been dressed in woman's clothes that time.

The gang's undoing resulted from the robbery of Samuel Aubley's jewelry store on Broadway Saturday night, when they stole jewelry. The police found part of the stolen property at the couple's home on Hamilton avenue, then followed the arrest of Harry Scott, alias Al Watkins, of Chicago, and John Pendergast.

Mrs. Nettie Tucker, 1121 East Fourteenth street, mother of the girl, was arrested charged with receiving stolen property, part of the Aubley plunder having been found in her stocking.

Tell Them You Know!
You may tell your friends, on our "say-so," that when they buy a package of the genuine Arbuckles' Ariosa Coffee they get the best of the coffee trade.

No coffee of equal quality can be sold in this town for the same price, whether it be sold out of a bag or a bin, or under some romantic trade-mark. You may tell them you know and that Arbuckle Brothers, the greatest coffee dealers in the world, will stand for it.

last Monday received his degree as an honorary member of the Lafayette County Pioneer Verein society.

In commercial, social and religious life Prof. Friemel was always a foremost man, being ever ready to do his part for the uplifting and betterment of his fellowman. He was an active and esteemed member of the Roman Catholic church, and was never found wanting when his religious duties called upon him to attend services or lend financial assistance. He was a man whom everybody was proud to call friend. He always met his acquaintances with a glad hand shake or a familiar "hello," and truly can it be said that he has never failed to assist a fallen brother when assistance was within his power.

Prof. Friemel died suddenly, it is true, but he has gone to a better world, where troubles are to be experienced no more, and in his removal hundreds of friends in Sedalia and elsewhere will join the Democrat-Sentinel in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved widow and children, upon whom the blow falls most heavily.

Funeral services will be held at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock Friday morning, and the Rev. Fr. Neiberg will officiate. Interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

The following gentlemen will serve as pall bearers: Joe Lennartz, Joseph B. Kraus, Joseph Paradis, Frank Losbach, Clemens Honkomp and Charles L. Keck.
